Brock says Young ought to be fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — Andrew Young's characterization of former Presidents Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford as racists "points up the fact that he is a diplomatic incompetent who should be fired," Republican National Chairman Bill Brock said today.

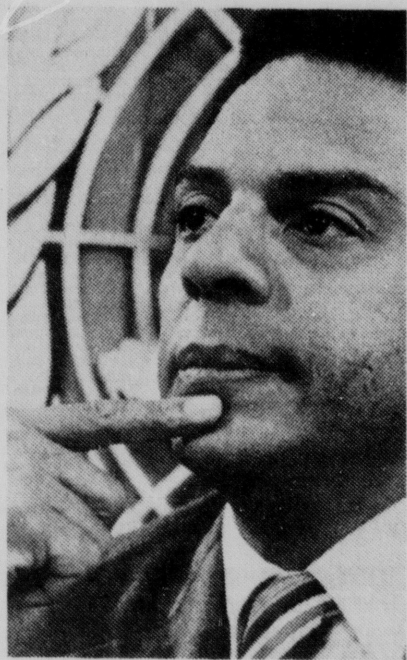

Brock said in a statement that Young, the one-time black civil rights activist who is ambassador to the United Nations, has "generally performed in a manner that almost daily highlights his ineptitude. His behavior as a diplomat is one of the sorriest in the history of our nation."

"The very least that President Carter can do is demand an apology from Young," Brock said. "To do otherwise, the President stands in silent agreement with him."

The outspoken Young, in a published interview, also declared that it's time to "let up" on criticism of the Soviet government's human rights policies.

"Frankly, I've said almost nothing about Soviet dissidents because I don't know that it helps anything," the Carter administration's ambassador to the United Nations said in an interview in the July issue of Playboy magazine.

"I don't think the Soviet government is, in fact, very concerned about its dissidents," said Young. "Of far more importance are its satellite countries in eastern Europe. More than President Carter's statements on human rights,

Andrew Young

Soviet leaders are worried about such things as increases in the budgets of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty — which they do interpret as real attacks on their system and sphere of influence."

Young said the letter of support President Carter sent to Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov was "the kind of thing you can do only once, like the (Israeli) raid on Entebbe. You don't try it again. My feeling, in sum, is that it's time to let up on the Soviet Union in this respect."

The Soviet human rights movement is a "rebellion by their elite, who have tasted a little freedom and want more," said Young, who is black. "As they advance economically and culturally, the Soviet Union is going to have a human rights explosion that will be not unlike our civil rights movement.... You'll have literally hundreds of thousands of dissidents rather than a few hundred."

Young accused the press of misinterpreting him, likened President Idi Amin of Uganda to Hitler, called former Presidents Nixon and Ford racists because they "had no understanding of the problems of colored peoples anywhere" and said previous Soviet-American arms talks have "all been cosmetic.... It was the Russians and the Nixon administration conspiring to deceive the American people."

"The Nixon administration bent over backward for the Russians," Young continued, "and, in a sense, it sold out to the Soviet Union. The Nixon Administration gave away wheat. This administration is going to sell wheat. And I think the President has decided he's not going to play disarmament games: Either we'll have a real ceiling on the arms race and serious arms reductions or we'll realize the Russians are not willing to do that."

Manford rebuffs Teasdale on site

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — "Arm-twisting" tactics by Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale and his aides have solidified the state Senate's stand on a new, maximum-security prison in mid-Missouri, a joint legislative compromise panel was told today.

As the conference committee began its deliberations on the prison funding measure, Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Don Manford, D-Lee's Summit, said "as pressure has been applied by the chief executive of this state and his aides, he has locked the Senate in concrete. Not just the conferees, but a large number of senators."

Manford said the governor's aides had talked with members of the panel over the weekend, and tried to influence them to opt for the medium-security prison in an urban area—a plan which Teasdale has endorsed.

The Senate has already voted $21 million toward the $34 million facility while the House has gone along with Teasdale's corrections division and its desire for a medium-security prison in an urban area.

"There is no reason we have to accept, at face value, the mandates of any appointee of the chief executive," Manford said. State Social Services Director James Walsh, who has opposed the Senate's proposal, sat expressionless in the committee room through Manford's opening remarks.

House negotiators on the conference panel did not interrupt the Senate members today as each senator presented his reasons for believing the maximum-security in mid-Missouri would best serve Missourians.

"We're at the point, after seven years, that the only way we're going to get the tide turning, and get moving to solve the prison problems, is to build this (maximum-security) facility," said Sen. Truman Wilson, D-St. Joseph. Wilson added that the site was "practical and the most logical approach to relieving the overcrowding conditions."

House and Senate conferees must reach an agreement on the prison plan before it can be sent to both chambers, where it may face further scrutiny. Manford said the Senate panelists' position is "very firm, no question about it."

House conferees have said they would hear the Senate conferees out on the prison situation before making a final decision on their stand.

Firefighters, citizen will be recognized

Despite some controversy surrounding their performance, several Sedalia firemen will be recognized at tonight's City Council meeting for their actions in saving the life of Mrs. Norma Brookman, 2309 East 12th, during a fire at her home recently.

The meeting will start at 7:30 in the Municipal Building. Also to be cited for his role in the fire will be a private citizen, John White, 2305 East 12th, who informed firemen at the scene that Mrs. Brookman was inside the burning house. He then obtained a tool from the fire department and pried open the window to the bedroom where Mrs. Brookman was and then boosted firemen through the window.

Despite the successful rescue, several of Mrs. Brookman's neighbors, including White, met last week with city officials and criticized the fire department's handling of the episode. They claimed there was an inordinate delay in rescuing Mrs. Brookman, who was unconscious.

Nevertheless, the firemen involved will be given letters of commendation that will go into the files, Mayor Allen Hawkins said Monday, "because a life was saved, and for that we are all grateful."

In other business, Hawkins will also announce tonight his selection of local citizens to fill approximately 32 vacancies on various city commissions and boards. Approximately one-fourth of the nominations will be new, with the rest consisting of recommended reappointments.

weather

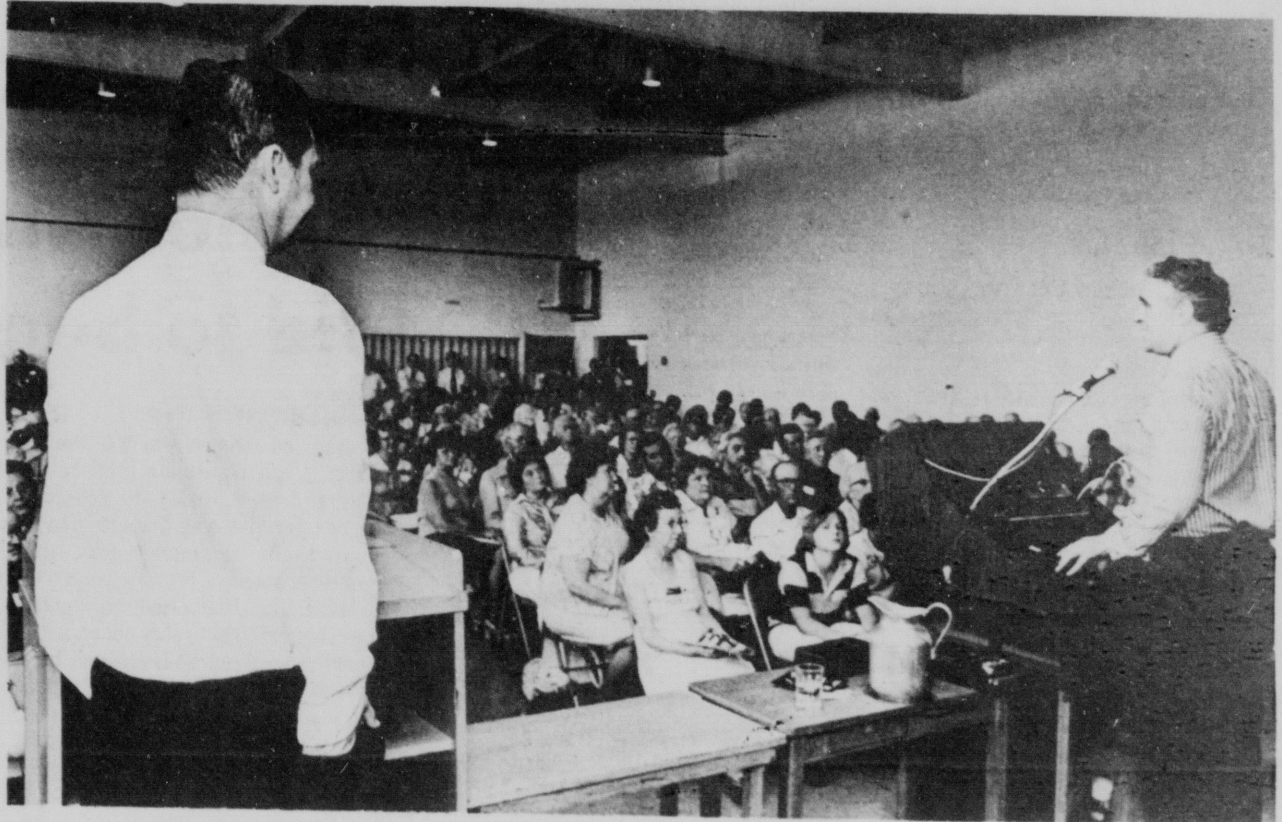

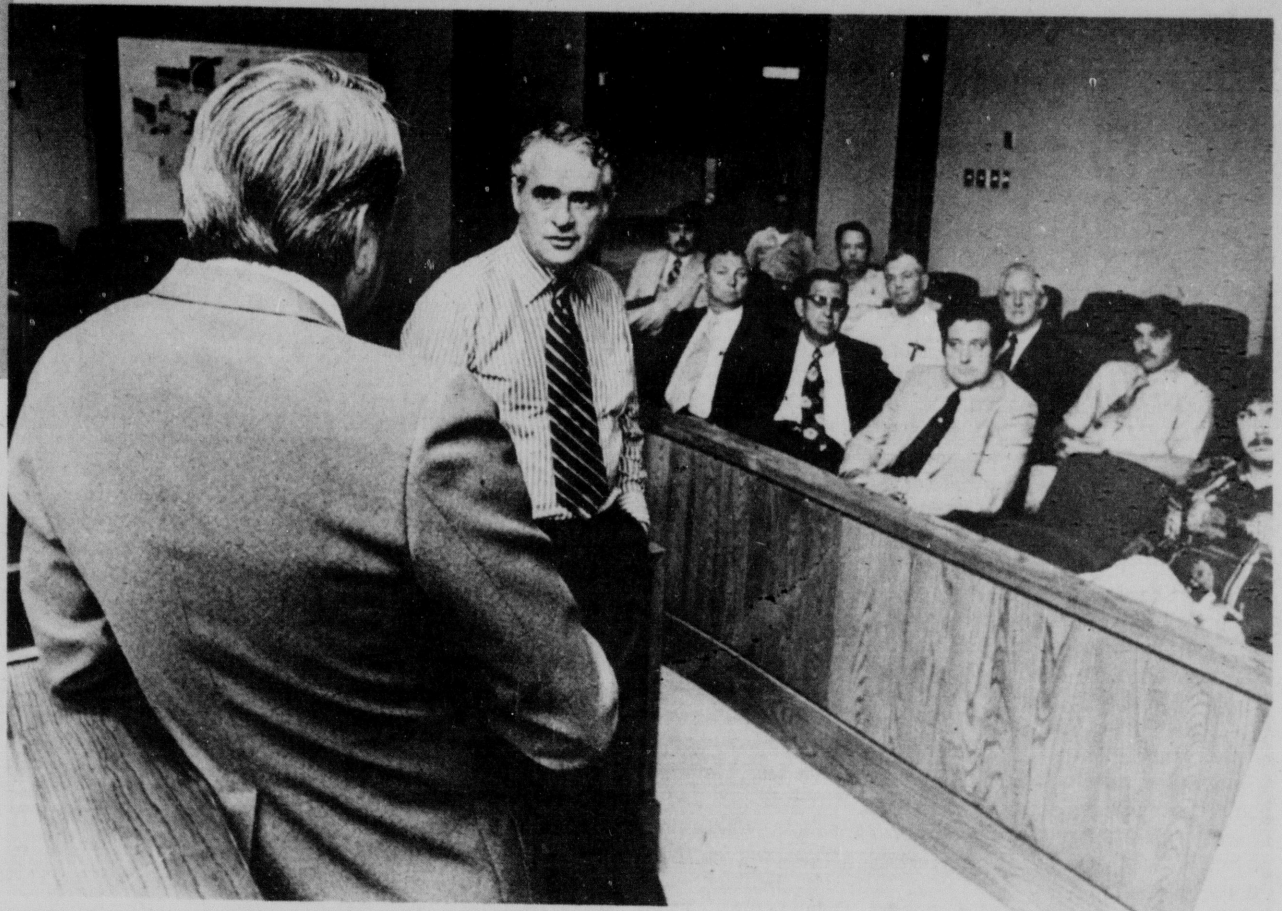

Clear to partly cloudy and cooler tonight and Tuesday with low tonight in low 50s. High Tuesday in mid 70s. Winds light northerly tonight. The temperature today was 74 at 7 a.m. and 77 at noon; high Sunday was 92, low was 70.

Lake of the Ozarks stage: 56.0; 4.0 feet below full reservoir. Sunset today will be at 8:35 p.m.; sunrise Tuesday at 5:48 a.m.

Eagleton views damage, lauds federal response

By DAN POTTER
Staff Writer

After touring areas devastated by the May 4 tornado Sunday morning, Sen. Thomas Eagleton told city and county officials he was "pleased with the prompt and thorough federal response" in the disaster clean-up and assistance operations in Sedalia and Pettis County.

"So often we hear the federal government is remote, isolated and even unconcerned, but this is a positive example of the federal government acting positively and with great sensitivity," Eagleton said of the recovery efforts here.

The senator first met with the City Council, Mayor Allen Hawkins, Rep. James Mathewson, D-Sedalia, Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and judges of the County Court at 9:30 a.m. in the council chambers. Hawkins showed Eagleton the swath the tornado cut through the city on a map.

"Are the needs of the community being attended to by the federal agencies?" Eagleton asked the mayor after viewing the map. "Yes, I think so, very well," the mayor responded.

Then Eagleton got a first-hand view of the tornado damage and the rebuilding efforts going on around Sedalia. He toured the Country Club addition, Southwest Village and the north part of town by car, the three areas hardest hit by the tornado.

"The damage here is self-evident," Eagleton said after the tour. "I'm glad I got to see the ramifications" of the federal assistance first hand, he explained.

Francis X. Tobin, region 7 director of the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration, toured the areas with Eagleton and also explained the various types of assistance his agency has offered to city and county residents affected by the storm.

Both Eagleton and the mayor thanked Tobin for what the mayor termed "a very expert job."

Eagleton's stop in Sedalia preceded a "federal assistance forum" held in Clinton Sunday afternoon for various city and county government officials in this part of the state.

Two Sedalia councilmen — Carl Franklin and Ray Hendricks — attended the meeting, which was designed to acquaint the local government officials with possible sources of federal funds for use in their communities. Eastern District Judge Russell McFatrach also attended.

The forum included 30 representatives of various federal agencies. Eagleton termed the meeting a first for the state. "If reaction is good," he said, "we'll schedule these meetings in other parts of the state."

Before leaving for Clinton, Eagleton touched on two issues of interest to Sedalians and other residents of the western part of the state.

Eagleton said the Sheriff Fairfax's appointment as U.S. marshal for the western district of Missouri should be "forthcoming."

Eagleton recommended Fairfax for the post several weeks ago, but as yet, even Eagleton said does not know exactly when the Senate will confirm the appointment and forward it to President Jimmy Carter for his signature.

Eagleton told The Democrat-Capital he will take a group of state and Kansas City government officials to Washington this week to meet with the President concerning the closing of Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base, which is just south of Kansas City.

The personnel displaced from the closing are to be sent to Scott Air Force Base in Illinois.

Eagleton said the closing of Richards-Gebaur will have bad effects on the state economy, "especially the housing market in Kansas City and surrounding areas."

Ray probe to Missouri

WASHINGTON (AP) — Missouri state sources say House assassination committee investigators are going to Jefferson City early this week to interview inmates at Missouri State Penitentiary.

The committee in an interim report has quoted fellow inmates as saying James Earl Ray told them before he escaped from the prison that he intended to kill Dr. Martin Luther King "if the price is right."

A committee spokesman in Washington did not deny the report that investigators are going to Jefferson City but said the committee is not disclosing the places the committee is sending investigators.

The committee's interim report quoted fellow inmates of Ray as saying he would look for a "businessmen's associate" that he had heard was offering $100,000 for King's assassination.

"Whether Ray ever made contact with such a group, either during or after his imprisonment in Missouri, is a question which has never been resolved," the committee said in the report. "The committee intends to resolve it."

Ray escaped from the penitentiary April 23, 1967, apparently by concealing himself in a large bread box which was carried onto a truck and driven out of the prison.

Warden Donald Wyrick said he had identified eight to 10 inmates for the committee staff to interview as well as six employees. "And after talking with them, they will probably determine others who should be interviewed."

"I've tried to help them out as much as I can on it," Wyrick said of the preparations.

He also said the investigators would be interviewing persons employed at the prison while Ray was there who still live in the area. Among them, Wyrick said, would be former prison warden Harold Swenson.

Dutch women report hostages faring OK

GRONINGEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two pregnant women released by South Moluccan terrorists after 13 days captivity said today that the other 53 hostages aboard a train in northern Holland are in good condition despite "very great psychological pressure."

"In general, the hostages are being treated correctly by the Moluccans," said Annye Brouwer-Korf, 31, in a statement read to reporters before she and 25-year-old Nelleke Ellenbroek-Prinsen left the Groningen University Clinic with their husbands.

Mrs. Ellenbroek, who is five months pregnant, and Mrs. Brouwer, who is two months pregnant, were freed Sunday. But Justice Minister Andreas van Agt said there is no indication that release is near for the other hostages aboard the train near Assen or four others held in a schoolhouse.

Both women looked relaxed and rested after their night in the hospital, where Mrs. Brouwer is employed in the personnel department. They were released from the hospital after examinations by a physician and a psychiatrist.

Van Agt said a six-hour mediation meeting Saturday between the militants on the train and two leaders of the South Moluccan community made little progress, and a second meeting has not been fixed.

"I don't yet see any reason to be optimistic that it will all soon be over," he said as the twin sieges went into their third week.

Justice Ministry spokeswoman Toos Faber said the terrorists' demands are basically unchanged. They have demanded the release of 21 other South Moluccans imprisoned for terrorist activity and a plane to fly them all out of the country.

Mrs. Faber said there was no connection between the release of Mrs. Ellenbroek and Mrs. Brouwer and the session Saturday between the terrorists and mediators Josina Soumokil and Hassan Tan. Another official suggested the Moluccans freed the women to get rid of a "troublesome burden."

Crash kills 2 near Edwards

EDWARDS — Two persons were killed and another seriously injured in a one-car accident on Highway 7, about eight-tenths of a mile east of here, shortly after 7 p.m. Sunday.

Dead are Gertrude M. Lague, 78, Merriam, Kan., driver of the car, and her daughter, Rosanna M. Dampier, 51, also of Merriam. Their bodies were taken to the Reser Funeral Home, Warsaw.

Listed in stable and satisfactory condition Monday morning at Golden Valley Hospital, Clinton, was Liguori A. Lague, 78, husband and father of the dead women. He received severe lacerations to his face and head and multiple fractures to his ribs, hip and wrist.

According to the Highway Patrol, the accident occurred when Mrs. Lague's car ran off the right side of the road, traveled about 300 feet along a ditch and then struck a culvert, overturning several times.

Downtown plan to be discussed

A detailed plan for the development and revitalization of the downtown business district will be discussed when the Planning and Zoning Commission meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Municipal Building.

In connection with the project, many downtown merchants plan to organize an action committee "to spearhead the project and to assist in formulating ideas," according to a letter sent to downtown merchants recently by Economic Development Director James Hamm.

Court splits 5-4 on death decision

Former Nixon aides told to begin terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — H.R. Haldeman and John N. Mitchell, the biggest fish in the Watergate prosecutor's net, were ordered today to report to prison no later than noon June 22 to begin serving their sentences for their Watergate crimes.

The ceremony that effectively ended their years-long fight to stay out of prison took only four minutes. Both men have been sentenced to serve 2½-to 8-year prison sentences, imposed on Feb. 21, 1975, for their roles in America's biggest political scandal, the Watergate cover-up.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica had indicated last week that he would give the two former Nixon administration officials until June 22 to get their affairs in order. Haldeman had asked through his lawyer to remain free to attend his daughter's graduation ceremony from law school and Mitchell asked to help his lawyers prepare a last-ditch, slim-chance appeal to the Supreme Court.

They have a choice of turning themselves in to a U.S. marshal at 10 a.m. or to voluntarily appear at the prison gates by noon.

Sirica only placed the men into the custody of the attorney general and it is up to the Justice Department to designate the prison. Haldeman's lawyer, John J. Wilson, said he had arranged for his client to go to the minimum security facility at Lompoc, Calif. Plato Cacheris, Mitchell's lawyer, said arrangements were not complete but that the former attorney general probably will be sent to Allenwood, Pa.

Drug cabinet broken into at hospital

Sedalia police and Bothwell Hospital authorities are currently investigating the weekend break-in of a security drug cabinet at the hospital.

Randall Silvey, police information officer, reported the break-in occurred between 2:30 p.m. Friday and 8:23 p.m. Monday, according to hospital officials.

Damage to the lock-type cabinet, located in the patient recovery room, was estimated at $130, Silvey reported. It was not known at noon Monday if any drugs had been taken from the cabinet, Silvey said. Hospital officials are to conduct an inventory to determine if any drugs were taken as soon as possible, Silvey reported.

In other police news:

— Ron Peters, 1300 Cedar Drive, reported the theft of $945 in items from his home sometime Sunday. A sewing machine, .22-caliber rifle, three piggy banks and a radio were taken from the home between 10:30 a.m. and 10 p.m. Sunday. The house was unlocked at the time of the theft.

— About 30 windows and screens were broken out of two Missouri Pacific Railroad bunk cars overnight Sunday. The cars were about 100 yards east of Main and Mill when the vandalism occurred. No value was placed on the damage.

— Thieves broke into the Elks Club Lodge, 320 South Kentucky, overnight Sunday but only took two boxes of cigars and six packs of chewing gum. No estimate was made for the items.

— Robert Walden, Windsor, reported the theft of his tape player from his car while it was parked at Main and Missouri Friday. Value for the player was set at $85.

Blaze at college placed at $500,000

CANTON, Mo. (AP) — Fire caused about a half million dollars in damage Sunday to the Culver-Stockton College music department, President Harold C. Doster said today.

The fire destroyed about half the 75-year-old building.

Some 250 homes east of Sedalia in the Maplewood subdivision area were without electrical service for more than an hour Monday when a Central Missouri Electric Cooperative power line burned in the north part of Maplewood.

The accident happened shortly before noon, Jack Garvin, general manager of the cooperative, reported. The fire power line burned either because of an excessive electrical load or because of faulty material, Garvin said.

Power was restored around 1 p.m.

Talmadge Brown back in custody

After avoiding capture for over a month, Talmadge Brown, 19, 1017 South Massachusetts, is back in the custody of the State Department of Corrections Monday following his capture in Sedalia.

Brown was caught by police at 3:10 a.m. Monday in a stalled car at Osage and Broadway. Brown at first gave police a false name until officer Dale White recognized him and placed him under arrest.

Another man, John Willis, 28, Tibet, Mo., was in the car with Brown and taken to the police station. He was later released. Brown was turned over to corrections department officials Monday. It is not known if escape charges will be filed against him.

Brown and four others escaped from the Fordland Honor Farm May 4. The five were serving sentences on charges ranging from burglary to writing bad checks.

Brown was sentenced on March 4 to three 2-year concurrent prison terms on felony charges of burglary and stealing.

More jobs for class of '77

For a long spell lean times have plagued job-hunting graduates of colleges and universities. But the picture has changed dramatically for the members of the lucky class of '77 both here and throughout the nation.

The improved outlook for the current crop of graduates is underscored in a national survey which reported that 118 of the nation's largest employers expect to hire 23 per cent more applicants with bachelor degrees than they did a year ago. Among master degree graduates, increased hiring is expected to reach 17 per cent more than in 1976.

Employment placement officers at St. Louis area campuses confirm the improvement in many fields, including engineering, accounting, technical, business and clerical. However, the situation generally remains tight in the areas of education, social work and government.

The tight job market in many fields in the recent past has had a sobering effect on college students. A recent survey showed that "middle-of-the-road" students form a majority nowadays, compared to the liberals that dominated the campuses of 1970. Confrontation with the hard facts of life has added a materialistic attitude, as today's students concentrate on developing expertise in their particular field. A 1970 survey reported a meaningful philosophy of life as the major goal.

Students now realize a diploma no longer is an automatic guarantee to employment. So do their parents who pay the escalating costs of going to college. Families are evaluating the wisdom of expending huge sums in pursuit of education.

The improving economic picture may reassure many doubters as increasing numbers move from campus directly to the employment of their choice. This is a welcome trend and one that almost everyone will agree is long overdue. (St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Reforms at the FBI achieved by Kelley

WASHINGTON — Almost exactly four years ago, President Richard M. Nixon nominated Clarence M. Kelley to become director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Rowan

The graying, slightly-stooped chief of police in Kansas City, came to Washington to lead the once-glorified FBI through its darkest hours in half a century.

Kelley, himself an FBI agent for 21 years, would guide the bureau through four years marked by revelations of FBI burglaries, FBI destruction of Watergate evidence, FBI funny games with Kennedy assassination evidence, FBI harassment of the late Dr. Martin Luther King (including efforts to provoke him to commit suicide), illegal FBI wiretaps and other unlawful surveillances. Kelley would head an FBI buffeted by charges that it is anti-minority, anti-women's liberation, Jim Crow in staffing, a threat to civil liberties and much more.

Kelley, now 65, is about to leave the FBI — and busy on the search committee that will recommend his successor. I dropped by the Hoover Building recently to breakfast with Kelley and to ask him what, if anything, has changed during his tenure. Kelley expressed great pride in the fact that he has reined in FBI investigators to the extent that they no longer are a threat to the liberties and dignity of the American people.

Kelley says there were some 23,000 "domestic security" investigations under way when he took over. There are 124 today — 100 targeted on individuals and 24 against organizations.

Kelley and his top aides have been criticized for pulling back too severely, for not knowing enough about the Hanafi Muslims who held several hostages in Washington recently, for not being able to infiltrate and throw into disarray the resurgent Ku Klux Klan. But Kelley in sists that the FBI has not reduced surveillances of Americans to a dangerous point.

He endorses former Atty. Gen. Edward Levi's decree that, as Kelley puts it, "unless there is a present danger, the greater danger is in the investigation that violates human rights and personal dignity."

Kelley spoke proudly of the new guidelines under which the FBI operates, and he says the whole agency awaits a "charter" from Congress spelling out what it is or is not to do.

I asked him if "guidelines" mattered a whit if the President was angered by a leak and wanted to tap the telephones of members of the White House staff and several journalists.

Kelley said he would refuse to take a blanket order for such wiretaps. If the White House said it was in the interest of national security, he said, he would demand that it be put in writing. "If it were not in writing...I would say no, I am not going to do it without a written order. And if I didn't get it, I'd just have to go."

And what about the charge that under Hoover the FBI amassed files which could prove so embarrassing the FBI could use the threat of blackmail to silence Congressmen — even a President.

Kelley told me that in his four years as director he had not been given a single report "about sexual deviation, about bedroom gossip or anything I would term as unprofessional." He said the FBI's agents "are happier in a situation where it's not expected that tidbits be brought to the director."

Furthermore, Kelley says, the "official and confidential" files are locked up where he has no fear that they will leak out. In any case, he says, the files are overrated.

Kelley clearly believes that he has returned the FBI to a non-political law enforcement role and that no American ought now consider it a menace.

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Bovina is a sleepy Texas town that rises out of the grain fields and quickly slumps back into them. The wheat is waist-high, the corn knee-high, this time of year. The fields stretch from horizon to horizon in endless green waves, with an occasional island of locust and elm trees.

Vernon Estes has farmed this land for over 30 years. He lives with his wife, Ellen, in a modest brick house in Bovina. It's an adequate home, he'll tell you, to shelter them from the fierce winter winds that howl on cold nights. They enjoy the simple life in the West Texas Panhandle, although Vernon swears he'll leave on the day the first traffic light is installed in Bovina.

Sometimes in the late evenings, when the call of the crickets rises and falls, the old-timers will join Estes to complain about the lot of the small farmers. They are the traditional guardians of American values. Yet they are being driven off their land by their inability to compete against the agricultural giants.

Depression-born laws to protect the small farmers are hopelessly outdated and now serve to subsidize the giant landowners as they gobble up ever-greater bites of the countryside.

The harvest in the fall should be bounteous, the Panhandle farmers agree, if their fields aren't hit by late-summer hailstorms. The surplus will be shipped overseas; agricultural sales brought back $12 billion to the United States last year, wiping out a $9 billion trade deficit in other products.

But there is no rejoicing in Bovina. Vernon Estes and his neighbors have watched desperately as the price of wheat has plummeted from $4.41 to $2 a bushel in less than four years. At the same time, the price of the flour they buy at the local market has soared from 69 cents to $1.09 for a five-pound sack.

The hardy folk who farm the Panhandle are dedicated to the soil. They labor from dawn to dusk for meager returns. Estes averages a scant $2.89 an hour for his working time, slim pickings from a half-million-dollar investment in 880 acres of farmland. The farmers' return on the $1.09 sack of flour has dwindled to a mere 18 cents.

Their costs, meanwhile, have skyrocketed. Irrigation water is vital to raise wheat in the hot, dry climate of the Panhandle. Yet the price of natural gas for fueling the irrigation pumps has tripled while the value of the wheat has been reduced in half. The cost of farm acreage and equipment is out of the reach of young families who want to stay down on the farm.

Bible verse

Then Job answered: "I have heard many such things; miserable comforters are you all." — Job 16:1,2.

"Where's the action?"

Merry-go-round

Small farmers lose to land-grabbers

Bovina's harassed banker, Jack Kaashin, told us that "farm deposits have declined as much as 30 per cent" and the demand for loans has gone up in the past year. This may compel the Bovina bank to cut off credit to many farmers.

Vernon and Ellen Estes now watch the farm foreclosure notices with the same apprehension that they read the obituary columns. Those who are losing their farms are proud people who demand little from life. All they ask in return for their hard work is just a fair return.

SUCCESS STORY — As the latest evidence that petroleum and politics mix, an Oklahoma oilman has built an oil and gas empire by exploration, manipulation and political influence.

He is Clyde Evans, whose Mangum Oil and Gas Co., according to federal investigators, has ridden roughshod over the competition and expanded across Oklahoma by procuring enormous quantities of emergency fuel supplies. The only problem: the company had no emergency.

But what Evans lacked in justification, apparently, he made up in political influence. At the federal level, Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., and Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., pestered the Federal Energy Administration to expedite Mangum's fuel request.

At the state level, two powerful legislators, Sen. Herschel Crow and Rep. Victor Wickersham, are pals of Evans. They reportedly made inquiries with the state energy office in Mangum's behalf.

Evans' success story, meanwhile, has been brought to the attention of federal investigators who are trying to find out how he got so much emergency fuel without the benefit of an emergency.

The investigative file has been moved from the Federal Energy Administration's regional offices in Dallas to Washington headquarters for "special attention." Apparently, Evans used his political connections to get special treatment.

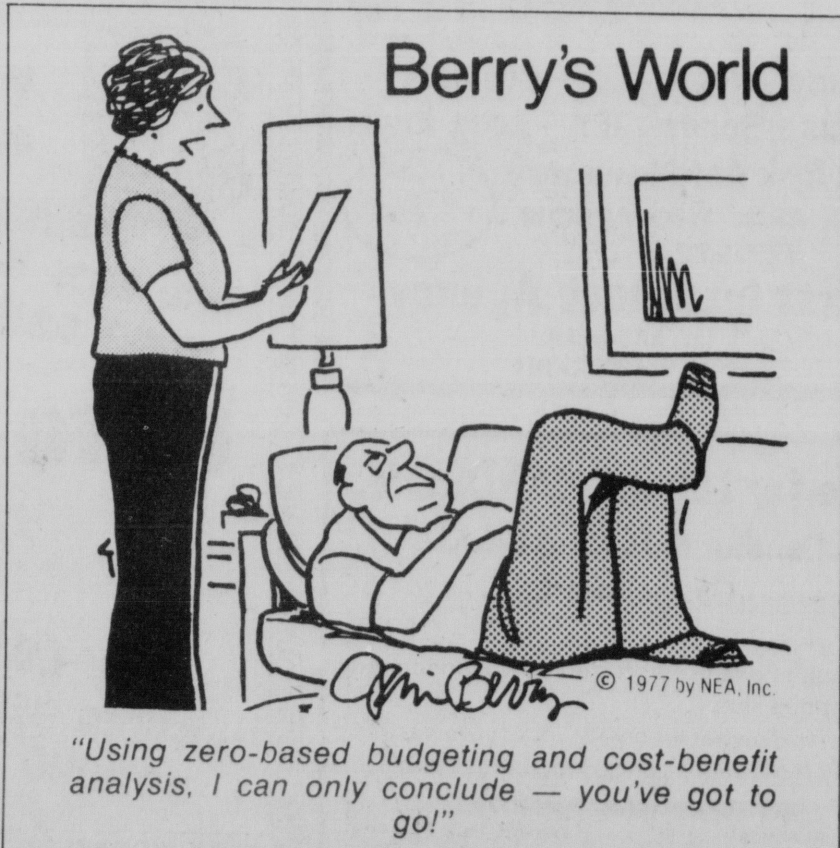

Oklahoma's Gov. David Boren, however, has already conducted his own investigation of Mangum Oil and Gas. An aide told us the investigation showed nothing improper but refused to show us the file.

Evans told us the oil and gas he was able to siphon from the federal emergency program amounted to only a "minor increase" in his supplies. But when we tried to pin him down on the details, he said he didn't have time to check his records. Our subsequent calls were not returned.

Richard Hill, director of the state energy office, told us that Mangum has received 4,554,000 gallons of emergency oil and gas since 1974. The company needed the supplies, Hill said, because it was the largest propane dealer in the state.

Bellmon, Bartlett and English said they wrote to the energy administration in response to routine constituent requests. To his credit, Bellmon stopped writing letters on Mangum's behalf years ago. The two state legislators, Crow and Wickersham, said they might have made some inquiries but weren't sure.

At the same time Evans was drawing excessive federal supplies for his company, he received his regular shipments from such private suppliers as Shell, Citgo, and Sun Oil. Industry sources told us Evans is not content with his supplies and wants to expand still more.

In Washington Ex-Ford officials do well

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Anyone brooding about the fate of all those dispossessed Ford administration folks can put away the old crying towel. The vast majority are doing very well, thank you.

Few of the erstwhile movers and shakers, it is true, can begin to match the standard for gracious living set by Gerald R. Ford himself, whose two years as president stand to bring him a cool $3 million or so over the next few years, primarily from broadcasting and publishing deals.

But Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Treasury Secretary William Simon are likely to come reasonably close as a result of their own highly profitable deals in banking, broadcasting and publishing ventures.

And most of the lesser lights from the outgoing administration should have little trouble keeping the wolf from the door, judging from what we have found in surveying the current job status of more than 300 former big shots and small fry who held political appointments in the Ford administration.

Upper and middle-echelon officials appear to be cashing in at a brisk clip on the reputations, professional experience and contacts they developed while in public service.

President Carter, with his new ethics code, hopes to halt the "revolving door" traffic between the government and private industry that it deals with, but the Ford people faced no such obstacle. A few have shown little squeamishness about taking advantage of their public service in the private sector.

A notable case in point is Malcolm R. Currie, former director of defense research for the Pentagon, who is now a vice president of Hughes Aircraft Co. in charge of the missile programs he used to monitor for the government.

There are numerous less obvious instances of officials parlaying public service into potentially profitable private jobs. William F. Gorog, former executive director of the Council on International Economic Policy, has formed his own company, the Arbor Group, specializing in international investment management services. Edwin H. Yeo III, former undersecretary of Treasury, is now executive vice president of First National Bank of Chicago. And Mary T. Brooks, former director of the Mint, is a part time consultant on international numismatic (coins) and philatelic (stamps) affairs for Paramount International Coin Corp.

There is scarcely a member of the Ford cabinet who is not now gracing the board of directors of some major corporation with his or her presence. Former Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr., for instance, has been nominated to the board of American Can Co., while former Housing and Urban Development Secretary Carla Hills was claimed by IBM. Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld is both president and chief executive officer of G.D. Searle & Co., the drug firm, at a reported annual salary of $200,000 plus generous stock options.

Of some 300 former Ford appointees, slightly more than one-third have accepted jobs in private business or trade associations, we have learned. Another 25 per cent are still on the government payroll in executive branch jobs, Capitol Hill staff positions or at the President Ford Transition Office, which is scheduled to shut down on July 20.

About 8 per cent are practicing law, 7 per cent are in academic jobs or at "think tanks" like the Brookings Institution or the American Enterprise Institute, while 25 per cent still report no employment five months after leaving office.

"Potomac fever," most often viewed as a Democratic disease, has taken its toll; about two-thirds of the Ford appointees are still in the Washington area.

The experience of the Ford officials is typical of the success enjoyed by most who come to the nation's capital to serve at the command of a president. There is always a lot of belly-aching at recruitment time about the "financial sacrifice" involved in government service, but the rewards at the end of the road can be substantial.

It seldom hurts to have "the White House" listed as your last place of business when you are filling out a resume. Even Richard Nixon can attest to that.

During the latter part of June, farmers will be combining fescue seed. If the acreage is small enough to be combined in a day or two, direct combining is recommended.

If seed acreage is large now, windrow and cure seed in the windrow and use a combine with a pickup attachment. Direct combining should begin when 5 to 15 per cent of the seeds are immature. When windrowing, mow at the earlier stage of seed head maturity. Mowing should begin when straw in the head is yellowing. Mow high enough to leave much of the grass stubble. Place windrow on stubble to allow circulation and thorough drying.

Handle seed to prevent heating after harvest. Clean immediately to remove green material. If seed temperature is higher than 110 degrees, germination loss will occur. If bin dryers are used, keep circulating air at the entrance below 90 degrees Fahrenheit.

Dole: Nixon is not yet rehabilitated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said Sunday that Richard Nixon may become an elder statesman in the Republican party, but he is not yet "rehabilitated."

"I don't see any active role for former President Nixon," Dole said Sunday.

Nixon's recent broadcast interviews with David Frost have "broken the ice," added Dole, who said Nixon "has had sort of a coming out."

But the Kansas senator, who was last year's Republican vice presidential candidate, said he doesn't foresee Nixon campaigning for GOP candidates.

"It takes more than four interviews...to properly rehabilitate Richard Nixon," he commented.

"I think there's still a yearning for the former president to come on television or in writing somewhere and say, 'This is really what happened. This is it and you have to believe it or disbelieve it.'"

Dole said, however, that his mail and people he has talked to in several states indicate "there is some Nixon sentiment out there."

Dole spoke on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," replacing presidential budget adviser Burt Lance, who refused to cross picket lines set up by striking members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians outside the network's studios.

plans to donate 2,000 trees locally to replace those lost in the tornado.

Beef referendum

To be eligible to vote, beef producers must register with their county ASCS office between Monday and June 17. Dairy producers who sell meat animals are also eligible. Any person who has sold at least one animal is eligible to register and vote. This would include 4-H or FFA members.

Field day

Thursday is the annual soils and crop field day at the Bradford Farm, southeast of Columbia. The first tour starts at 7 a.m. and will last two hours. The last tour starts at 11 a.m.

New tall fescue, oat and wheat varieties will be available for observation. Miracle products will be reviewed. Other topics for discussion and observation will be water quality, corn variety tests, improvement in corn stalk quality, weed and wireworm control and irrigation response.

Costs double

Records of hog producers enrolled in the University of Missouri mail-in record program showed this comparison of costs per 100 pounds of pork produced in 1970 and 1975. In 1970 the feed cost was $13.50 and by 1975 it had doubled to $27.05. Labor moved from $1.72 to $3.22. Machinery expense was $1.42 in 1970 and $2.48 in 1975. Land and buildings charge per 100 pounds pork produced moved from 98 cents to $1.41. Veterinary and medicine did not change but 6 cents in these five years. Utilities, taxes, insurance, interest, etc., went from $1.05 to $3.06. These costs made a total cost per 100 pounds of pork produced in 1970 of $18.98. In 1975 these total costs had increased two times and were up to $38.14.

Wheat to dairy

Wheat can be substituted in dairy rations at the 30 to 50 per cent level without any problems and would lower the amounts of protein supplements needed which could give savings of $5 to $10 per ton. Incorporating wheat into dairy rations would alleviate trading dollars for purchasing higher energy and protein feeds. The exact grain ration should always be formulated for your herd's production levels and forage feeding program.

Most American banana eaters like their fruit either fully yellow or in between, according to National Geographic statistics, but 17 per cent prefer it green and 7 per cent want it speckled.

"Always Fresher"

WASHINGTON (AP) — With less than four months left in this fiscal year, the Agriculture Department still has nearly $150 million to loan qualified foreign countries for the purchase of U.S. farm commodities.

The loans are provided under USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation Credit Sales Program, authorized at a level of $1 billion for the current fiscal year, which will end Sept. 30.

Through May, $858.5 million had been committed. But countries that can draw upon the loans actually used $635.6 million of the total credit available to them.

That means that in addition to the $150 million still available for new loan commitments, countries currently participating still had $222.9 million available to buy U.S. farm commodities.

The export credit program is not like Food for Peace — also called P.L. 480 — which provides long-term, low-interest loans to foreign countries for the purchase of commodities. Rather, it is a commercial arrangement available to countries considered good credit risks.

Export credit loans can be extended for a maximum of three years and provide for annual installment payments, including interest. The loans carry regular bank interest rates.

A few years ago, when grain and some other commodities were in relative short supply, the export credit program was sharply curtailed. But since supplies have increased, there is more money available than many eligible countries apparently want to use.

For example, as of May 31 Poland still had $51.5 million in credit available to buy wheat, Portugal $15.2 million for feed grains, the Dominican Republic $10.4 million for rice, South Korea $20.6 million for cotton, Morocco $4 million for breeding cattle, the Philippines $4.1 million for tobacco and Syria $4.3 million for vegetable oil.

The export credit program was started in the 1950s and has provided more than $5 billion to qualified countries to buy U.S. farm commodities.

3-1 advantage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States had a farm trade advantage of almost 3 to 1 with Canada last year, according to the Agriculture Department.

Farm exports to Canada in calendar 1976 totaled a record of about $1.5 billion, up 14 per cent from $1.3 billion in 1975, the department's Economic Research Service says in an annual review.

Updated estimate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department will issue an updated estimate of 1977 winter wheat production this week.

Scheduled for release at 3 p.m. EDT Wednesday, the report will include the national estimate for this year's winter wheat crop, along with state production and yield figures.

VISUAL EVALUATION

In evaluating barrows and gilts for fatness and muscling, variations in the degree of fatness have a greater effect on the yield of the lean cuts than do variations in muscling. The fatness and muscling evaluations can best be made simultaneously. This is accomplished by considering the development of the various parts based on an understanding of how the appearance of each part is affected by variations in muscling and fatness. While the muscling of most swine develops uniformly, the fat is normally deposited at a considerably faster rate on some parts than on others. Therefore, muscling can be appraised best by giving primary consideration to the parts least affected by fatness, such as the ham. Differences in thickness and fullness of the ham — with appropriate adjustments for the effects of variations in fatness — are the best indicators of the overall degree of muscling in slaughter barrows and gilts. Conversely, the overall fatness of barrows and gilts can be determined best by observing those parts on which fat is deposited at a faster-than-average rate. These include the edge of the loin, the rear flank, the shoulder, the jowls, and the belly. As swine increase in fatness, these parts appear progressively fuller, thicker, and more distended in relation to the thickness and fullness of the other parts, especially the thickness through the hams.

estimated winter wheat output at nearly 1.48 billion bushels, 6 per cent less than last year but 3 per cent more than initially was forecast last December.

There will be no estimate of 1977 spring-planted wheat until July 12, meaning that an official USDA figure on total wheat output will not be ready until then.

However, department experts have projected a total 1977 wheat harvest of around two billion bushels, assuming favorable weather through the season. Harvest of winter wheat, planted last fall, is under way now in southern areas and is gradually nudging into Oklahoma and Kansas.

Last year's total wheat output was almost 2.15 billion bushels, a record, and has resulted in a sharp buildup in stockpiles.

Season opener for Merchants

Sedalia beats Jeff City

By KIRK WEBER
Sports Editor

In their season opener Sunday afternoon at Liberty Park, the Sedalia Merchants scored five runs in the second inning and went on to defeat Jefferson City 11-4.

The Merchants racked up 15 hits in the contest, while four Sedalia pitchers scattered 11 Jeff City hits.

The game was marred by a ninth-inning fight that cleared the benches and delayed the game several minutes.

Sedalia got on the board quick and hit hard in the second.

Mark Wheeler, Paul Kostopolus, Alan Giokaris and Mike Marcum led off the inning with consecutive singles, with Giokaris' hit driving in the first two runs.

Sedalia starter Sam Downs was hit by a pitch to load the bases, the Len DeGonia followed with a single that drove in Giokaris and Marcum. Downs was hung up between third and home on the play and tagged out, but DeGonia advanced to third.

Pete Kostopolus singled home DeGonia to complete the second-inning scoring for the Merchants.

Sedalia added two more runs in the third. Paul Kostopolus walked to start the inning, but was forced at second with Giokaris taking second on an error by Jeff City second baseman Arnold Bailey.

Marcum then doubled home Giokaris. After moving to third on Rod Howdeshell's sacrifice fly, Marcum stole home to make the score 7-0 Sedalia.

Sedalia had one more outburst in the fifth.

Howdeshell and DeGonia led off with back-to-back singles. After Pete Kostopolus grounded out, Jim Sanders doubled to drive in both runs.

Sanders went to third on Rick Riddle's grounder and scored on a wild pitch.

The Merchants got their final run in the inning after two were out. Wheeler walked and went to third on a wild pick-off attempt that rolled down the rightfield line.

Paul Kostopolus then walked and allowed himself to be caught in a rundown between Kostopolus was tagged out, Wheeler scored, and Sedalia held an 11-1 lead.

Sedalia's pitching did a good job of scattering the Jefferson City hits.

Downs started the game, working three innings and giving up no runs on just two hits.

Howdeshell took over in the fourth and worked the next three innings.

Jeff City tagged him for one run on a pair of hits in the fourth, but he allowed just one more hit and was credited with the win.

Mark Stockstill came in in the seventh. He gave up three runs on four hits in the next inning and one-third, before Mike Arnold came on to mop up, allowing no runs and just one hit in the final inning and two-thirds.

Greg Reynolds started for Jefferson City and ended up with the loss. In three innings, he gave up seven runs on eight hits.

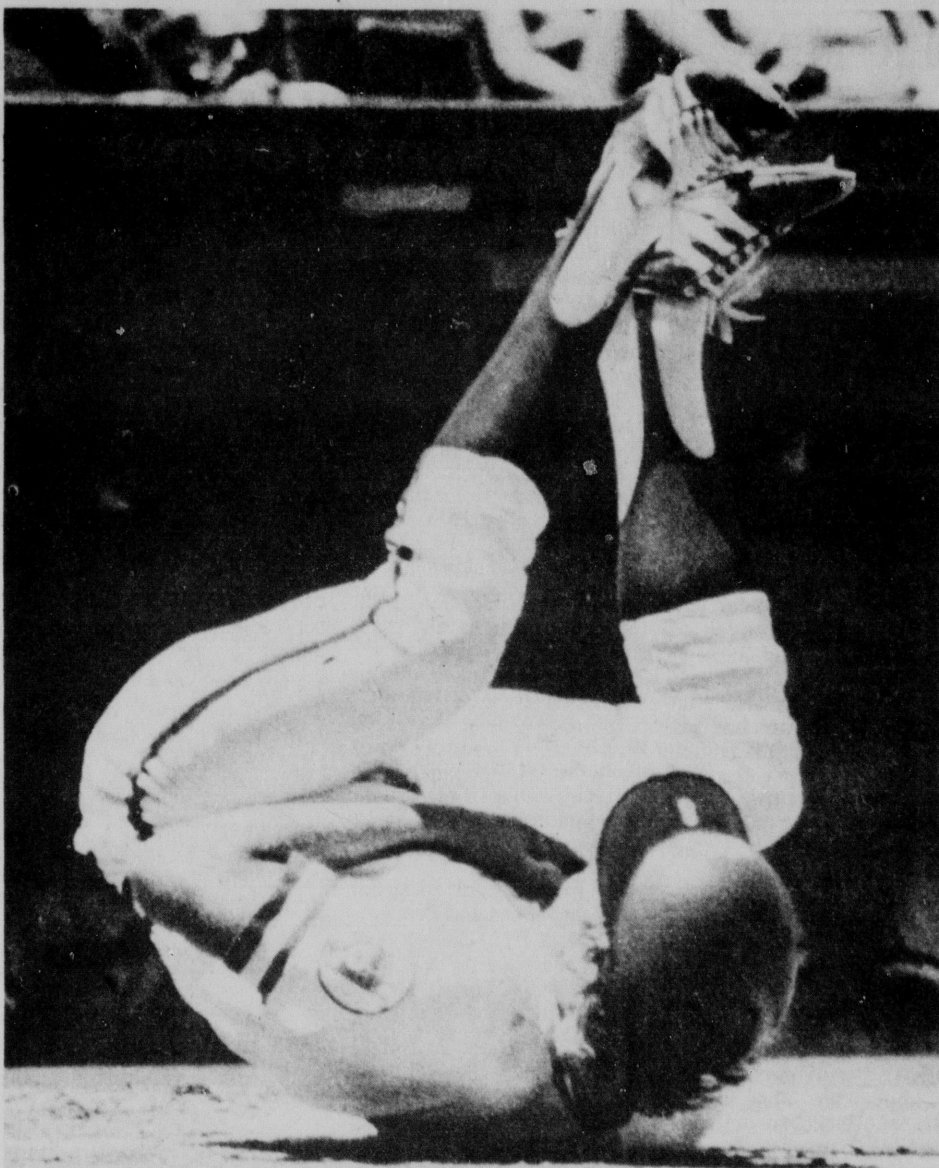

Mike Merrick did a little better, working the last five innings and giving up four runs on seven hits.

Three players were ejected from the game following the fight in the ninth inning. The brawl broke out after Jefferson City's Rex Burlison was forced out at second.

Burlison and DeGonia exchanged words, then exchanged blows. Before it was over, both benches had emptied on the field and it took coaches, umpires and help from the stands to get things straightened out.

Two Sedalia police officers were called to the stadium to keep an eye on things, but there were no more incidents.

A report on the incident will be made to the Ban Johnson commissioners. Sedalia commissioner Bob Brown said he didn't know what action the league might take on the matter, but he did say it is normal policy to suspend for one game anyone who starts a fight, if that can be determined.

Better things to come

Royals' designated hitter Pete LaCock falls to the ground in pain after being hit by a Jim Palmer fastball in the first inning of Sunday's game. LaCock stayed in the game and in his next at-bat blasted a two-run homer that lifted the Royals to a 4-3 win over Baltimore.

(UPI)

LaCock supplies power

Royals beat Orioles

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The change is doing Pete LaCock — and the Kansas City Royals — a lot of good.

First, there is his switch from the National League to the American League and a resultant .311 batting average.

Then, there is his rare starting appearance Sunday against Baltimore ace Jim Palmer and an ensuing two-for-three batting performance.

And there is the Palmer change-up that LaCock belted beyond the right field wall in the fourth inning to secure a 4-3 Kansas City victory.

"He's a good pitcher. He just made a mistake," said LaCock, who was seeing the three-time Cy Young award winner for the first time. "He threw a changeup and he got it up."

The blast, which the young designated hitter followed with a single in the eighth, helped Royals left-hander Andy Hassler, making his first start since April 26, boost his record to 2-1.

LaCock, whom the Royals bought from the Chicago Cubs over the winter, has hit no better than .229 since coming up to the majors for good in 1974. But he is finding American League pitching to his liking, even though one-fourth of his plate appearances have been in pinch-hit roles.

"You see a lot more curves over here than in the National League," said LaCock. "Especially when a pitcher is behind. They aren't afraid to throw the breaking ball."

LaCock, who can play first base and the outfield, has become the Royals' most effective pinch-hitter, collecting five hits in 16 at-bats. But he admits it's a tough job.

"I tell you, pinch-hitting is a lot of luck. You just go up there and swing, and when they fall they fall," he said. "I've just been lucky."

Certainly luckier than Palmer, 7-5, was Sunday against the Royals. The 31-year-old righthander gave up just five hits, but was plagued by early wildness and a crucial fourth-inning error.

After the Orioles took a 1-0 lead in the first on Lee May's RBI double, Palmer walked the first two Kansas City batters ahead of George Brett's double and Al Cowens' sacrifice fly.

Then, with the score deadlocked 2-2 in the fourth, second baseman Rich Dauer dropped Cowens' pop-up and LaCock, who was hit by a pitch in his first appearance, promptly homered to give the Royals a two-run lead.

"It's tough to win in this park with three runs," said Palmer wryly. "Especially when you give up four."

It was the Baltimore hurler's second straight failure to become the winning pitcher in Oriole history. His 181 victories match Dave McNally's total.

"I don't think about that. If I don't get it today, I know I'll get it sometime," he said. "I can only go out there and do the best I can."

Mejias, known for his defensive abilities in the outfield rather than his hitting prowess, delivered the game-winning blow while pinch-hitting for reliever Don Stanhouse, 4-7, leading off the seventh inning.

"It was a fastball right down

Cards fall to Expos 7-5

MONTREAL (AP) — Sam Mejias clutched a baseball in the clubhouse after his first major-league home run broke a tie and sparked the Montreal Expos to a 7-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday.

"No, this isn't the ball I hit, but a security guard has it and I'm going to trade him for it," said the 25-year-old native of Santiago, Dominican Republic, in one of his first experiences of attracting media attention.

"It was a fastball right down the middle," Mejias said of the pitch from loser Clay Carroll, 2-1. "Like I say, I don't know when I hit a home run."

Mejias hit 42 homers in 667 minor league games before connecting in his 34th major league game over two seasons.

"I was very excited for two reasons—the second thing was that we went ahead," said Mejias, a former member of the Cardinals. "The first thing was the home run—I was excited about that."

"I'm just happy I hit it—it doesn't matter against who."

The Expos added a run in the seventh on an RBI double by Ellis Valentine, off Butch Metzger. Andre Dawson, Gary Carter and Tony Perez all homered earlier for Montreal and Larry Parrish contributed a two-run double in the second inning.

Montreal acquired Mejias from the Cardinals last November for three players, including outfielder Tony Scott, who had a three-run homer in the third against starter Santo Alcala. Jerry Humphrey had a run-scoring single in the inning and Scott scored the other St. Louis run in the sixth on a throwing error by Expos shortstop Chris Speier.

"He's stayed with it and he's worked hard," Expos Manager Dick Williams said of Mejias after his club completed a three-game series sweep over the Cardinals.

"They're very hot and we haven't been executing," Cardinals Manager Vern Rapp said. "Our pitching hasn't been holding up."

Evans sidelined

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox right fielder Dwight Evans will learn this week whether he can rejoin the team soon or be forced to go on the disabled list.

Evans returned home last week after a Minnesota physician examined his right leg and advised rest. He suffered a pulled muscle in the leg Wednesday night during a game against the Texas Rangers.

Experience gives Weiskopf edge, tournament win in Kemper Open

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Experience was the key to his victory in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament, Tom Weiskopf said. A regained putting touch brought him through the multiple-man scramble.

But wife Jeanne deserves a large part of the credit, too.

"I was really down after my disappointing, discouraging finish in the Memorial Tournament in my home town," Weiskopf said Sunday after a final-round 70 had broken a two-year victory drought.

"I just wanted to get away from tournament golf for a while. I hadn't won in two years. I was playing bad. It wasn't any fun. I was confused and angry. I didn't know what to do."

"I just wanted to get away for a while and not play and try to get things worked out."

"My wife told me I was like a rookie trying to win his first one. She told me I had to stick with it. She said I was the only one who could make it happen, and I couldn't make it happen if I wasn't playing."

"So I went on to Atlanta."

He shot a nine-birdie 65 in the last round at Atlanta and, only after that round, decided to play in the Kemper. That decision — and his critical play on the par-five hole — led to a 277 total, 11 under par, his third victory in the Kemper and $50,000 from the total purse of $250,000.

And it prompted him to enter this week's Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic. He filed his entry moments after posting his 12th career victory and only moments before the deadline.

Weiskopf had to birdie the par-five ninth hole to remain in a tie with non-winners George Burns and Bill Rogers halfway through the final round. He took sole control with another birdie on the par-five 10th and locked it up with a one-putt par on the par-five 15th, where Burns made bogey from a fairway bunker. That put Tom three in front with three to play.

Burns and Rogers, both non-winners, each finished with a round of par-72 and a tie for second at 279. Doug Towell and Lou Graham also wound up with par rounds but finished at 280. Tied at 281 were Craig Stadler, Allen Miller, Hubert Green, Lanny Wadkins, J.C. Snead and Bill Calfee.

The victory put Weiskopf in position for one of 12 spots on the U.S. Ryder Cup team that will meet England's best this fall, but he said even if picked, he would not compete.

"I wrote the PGA a year ago saying I had made some plans for those dates and for them to take my name off the list ... it's not a knock at the PGA or the Ryder Cup or anything like that. I've made plans to go hunting with some friends of mine and hunting is very important to me."

Trail Blazers new NBA champs

PORTLAND (AP) — The Pacific Northwest is known for rain and clean air. Now, it's also known for the best basketball played anywhere.

The Portland Trail Blazers, who until this year had never had a winning season, claimed the National Basketball Association title Sunday with a hairraising 109-107 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

"We had a whole lot of fun," grinned Blazer team captain Bill Walton, who was named the series' Most Valuable Player after he scored 20 points, grabbed 23 rebounds and blocked eight shots in the victory. "I feel good all over."

When the buzzer sounded, Walton, who suffered through two injury-plagued seasons and considerable criticism before leading his team to this championship, ripped the No. 32 jersey from his back and hurled it into the crowd.

The Blazers had dropped the first two games of the best-of-seven championship series, then won four in a row to win the title. Sunday's contest was the only game that was close.

Portland led by as many as 15 points, but the Sixers repeatedly challenged the Blazers. They nearly caught them at the finish.

Joe Bryant's two free throws with 51 seconds left sliced the Portland lead to 108-105. Portland's Maurice Lucas sank one of two free throws with 27 seconds to make it a four-point game.

George McGinnis, whose shooting touch returned for the final game, sank a 20-footer to slice the lead to 109-107 with 18 seconds to go. Then McGinnis tied up Portland's Bob Gross and controlled the subsequent jump ball.

The Sixers got three shots in the final eight seconds, but none found its target. The first was by Julius Erving, who led all scorers with 40 points, but his 18-footer bounced off the rim. Lloyd Free grabbed the rebound, but his shot was blocked by Walton.

McGinnis grabbed the ball and fired from 12 feet, but the shot was short. Walton tipped the rebound to Portland's Johnny Davis and the game was over.

The crowd of 12,951 swamped the court in what looked like a scene from a Cecil B. DeMille epic, and the immediate postgame hysteria was tame compared with the celebration that followed downtown. A parade through downtown was planned for noon today.

"The sun was shining in Portland. I thought that was a good omen," said exhausted Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue. "It was a tough game."

The tenseness of the game evaporated in the euphoria of the post-game Portland dressing room, where guard Dave Twardzik jokingly dumped beer down the shorts of Walton and Lionel Hollins as they were being interviewed on television.

Champagne flowed freely and so did compliments.

"I'm a very good friend of everybody on this team," Gross said. "I can say anything I want to any of them. You can't say that about very many teams."

"They play team ball, unselfish ball. They are the embodiment of the best in professional basketball," said champagne-drenched team owner Larry Weinberg.

"These guys have played great all season," said the usually reserved Walton. The big Portland center normally avoids post-game interviews, but he talked at length after the game.

"In my opinion," he said, "they (the Sixers) lost because they played a better team. I don't mean to take anything away from them. They're a fine team. I just think they ran into a better one."

"This was one of the best games I've ever played in," Walton said. "A lot of guys played well and it was exciting."

Walton won a new car from Sport Magazine when a panel of writers selected him MVP. Blazer Coach Jack Ramsay couldn't argue with the choice.

"I've never coached a better player. I've never coached a better competitor. I've never coached a better person than Bill Walton," said Ramsay.

While Erving grabbed his usual place in the spotlight by sinking 17 of 29 field goal tries from a variety of angles, Gross — the man who was guarding him — hit 12 of 16 field goal attempts and grabbed five timely offensive rebounds.

Gross wound up with 24 points, tops for the Blazers.

Campbell pays Twins a visit

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

If Bill Campbell wanted to prove that you can go home again, he did it in style Sunday.

Campbell, Boston's ace reliever who signed with the Red Sox for $1 million as a free agent after leaving the Minnesota Twins last winter, made his first appearance against his former teammates in a Boston's 5-1 triumph Sunday. Campbell did not spare the dramatics in his return engagement either, entering the game with the bases loaded and none out in the Twins' sixth.

Campbell got out of the jam after allowing just one run, which Rod Carew drove in with a sacrifice fly on a 3-0 pitch. Over-all, he pitched four innings of two-hit relief in recording his ninth save of the season.

Campbell's heroics gave Reggie Cleveland his fourth victory in seven decisions. George Scott drove in the Red Sox' first run with a single in the sixth. It was his 1,700th career hit.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City edged Jim Palmer and Baltimore 4-3, Seattle beat Cleveland 6-1, the New York Yankees slugged six home runs in defeating Chicago 8-6, Toronto's Jerry Garvin earned his seventh victory of the season in besting Vida Blue and Oakland 7-3, Texas nipped Milwaukee 7-6 and California took Detroit 5-1.

Mariners 6, Indians 1

Ruppert Jones' 10th home run of the season and John Montague's first complete game of his major league career highlighted Seattle's triumph. The victory snapped a four-game Mariners' losing streak and made Montague, 5-3, the club's first five-game winner.

Yankees 8, White Sox 6

The Yankees' long ball onslaught started with Thurman Munson's solo blast in the opening inning, his ninth homer of the year. Carlos May and Reggie Jackson hit two-run home runs and Graig Nettles, Bucky Dent and George Zeber added solo shots. Zeber's homer was his first in the major leagues.

Dick Tidrow, 5-2, gained the victory for New York and Sparky Lyle pitched three innings in registering his 11th save. Steve Stone, 6-4, had a five-game winning streak snapped.

Blue Jays 7, A's 3

Toronto rookie Garvin, 7-3, bested Blue, 3-7, with four innings of sparkling shutout relief from Jerry Johnson. Otis Velez slammed two home runs and Doug Ault hit a three-run shot in support of Garvin.

Rangers 6, Brewers 6

Tom Grieve's homer and two RBI and the one-hit relief pitching of Adrian Devine helped the Rangers beat Milwaukee. The Brewers got home runs from Cecil Cooper, Sal Bando and Charlie Moore.

Angels 5, Tigers 1

Frank Tanana became the major league's first nine-game winner with a strong eight-hitter as California moved into a virtual tie for third place with Texas in the AL West. The victory also moved the Angels one game over .500.

Dodgers survive wild pitching

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Charlie Hough huffed and he puffed, but he wasn't exactly blowing San Diego batters down. A struggle it was, but the Los Angeles reliever managed to preserve a victory for Doug Rau.

The usually reliable pitcher was uncommonly erratic Sunday, twice walking the bases loaded in the final two innings. But just as he dug himself into holes, he quickly dug himself out to preserve the Dodgers' 4-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Hough, for all his wildness, didn't give up a hit while gaining his 15th save of the season.

"What happened to my Hope Diamond?" kidded Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda about his bullpen ace.

Another who's played a major role in getting the Dodgers up front in the National League West is second baseman Dave Lopes. He had a two-run homer Sunday, providing the Dodgers with their eventual winning runs.

In other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds walloped the Houston Astros 14-4, the Montreal Expos whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 7-5, the San Francisco Giants outscored the Atlanta Braves 10-9, the New York Mets beat the Philadelphia Phillies twice, 6-5 and 3-2 and the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

Rau gave up five hits before Hough relieved him. Mike Ivie belted his fifth home run with the bases empty in the fifth inning, giving the Padres a 2-1 lead. But Lopes' two-run homer in the bottom of the fifth put Los Angeles ahead to stay as the Dodgers retained a 10-game lead over Cincinnati in the National League West.

Reds 14, Astros 4

Johnny Bench drove in five runs with two homers and Joe Morgan had a three-run blast, powering unbeaten Gary Nolan and Cincinnati over Houston. Bench, who entered the game with a .227 batting average, slammed his 10th and 11th homers of the season to take over the team lead with 37 runs batted in.

Giants 10, Braves 9

Bill Madlock smashed a two-run double and Derrel Thomas hit a pair of sacrifice flies as San Francisco took an early seven-run lead and held on to beat Atlanta.

The Giants hammered out an 8-1 lead in the first three innings. But Atlanta jumped in to contention with a five-run rally in the seventh, featuring a grand-slam homer by rookie Barry Bonnell, his first homer in the major leagues.

Mets 6-3, Phillies 5-2

John Milner scored the winning run in the 10th inning on a bases-loaded wild pitch by reliever Tom Underwood to give New York its first-game victory over Philadelphia.

Dave Kingman's three-run homer in the fourth inning enabled the Mets to defeat the Phillies in the second game and record their first doubleheader sweep this season.

Jim: "Paul Lukacs and Jeff Rubens have produced a book called 'Test Your Play as Declarer' which gives 89 problem hands. Some are extremely complicated, but most show a fairly simple common sense approach to the problem."

Oswald: "Their first hand is from rubber bridge. West leads the king of spades against your three-notrump contract which looks like a cinch. There appear to be six club tricks and the other three aces."

Jim: "That is too simple."

These writers must have set a trap for you. Can you find the trap?"

Oswald: "The trap wasn't really set for us, but it is there for the unsuspecting reader. Suppose clubs break 3-0. Then when declarer plays clubs he will have to win the third in dummy and the eight or nine will block the suit."

Jim: "South can guard against this by ducking the first spade and the second spade. Then he will be able to chuck a club on the ace of spades. Or if West shifts South can duck a spade on his own and still get ready for that discard."

ASK THE JACOBYs

A California reader wants to know the correct response to partner's one-club opening. Your hand is:

♠ K J x x ♡ A x x ♦ K 10 x x ♣ Q x

The correct response is one diamond to give you the best chance to explore slam if partner has a big hand and to find the best game contract in case partner has a minimum or near minimum.

A two-notrump response crowds the bidding.

'Rummagerrefugee' stirs reader protest

Dear Readers: Well, I've done it again — incurred the wrath of nearly every wife in the United States, Canada, Tokyo, Bangkok, Mexico City, Puerto Rico, Nassau, and Bermuda. I even got a nasty letter from Guadalajara.

I wrote in a recent column: "Show me a married man who looks like a refugee from a rummage sale and I'll show you a wife who doesn't care about him."

The most articulate letters could not be cleaned up for publication, but here are samples of the printables:

Dear Ann: I'd like to wring your neck. Why should a wife be responsible for her husband's wardrobe? I wash the car, put on screens, mow the lawn, and paint the basement. There's no such thing as a woman's job or a man's job any more. Work doesn't care who does it. Retire already! — Marshalltown, Iowa

Dear Ann: I know my husband looks godawful when we go out but I can't help it. He rolls up his sleeves and pops buttons — forces his favorite wide belt through loops that are too small — refuses to cut his toenails and his socks are torn after two wearings. If you want to know what he had for lunch or dinner just look at his tie. You'll find samples of everything. He's a nice guy and I DO care about him but he is also a slob and that's HIS problem. — Suffering In Manhattan

Dear Ann: Do you know any husbands who take care of their wife's clothes? Join the 20th century, Kiddo. — Seeing Red And I Don't Mean Buttons

Dear Ann: My jerk has a dozen good suits in the closet, but he goes to church in polyester slacks and a polka-dot shirt with a striped tie. I've given up. — Augusta

Dear Ann: If a woman looks sloppy, she "let herself go." If it's a man, "His wife doesn't care about him." You're nuts. — Memphis

Dear Ann: Sorry, dear, you goofed and you're going to hear plenty. My husband is a honey and I love him, but he doesn't give a damn about how he looks. If the invitation says "informal" he'll show up in sandals, no socks, a T-shirt and Bermuda shorts in the winter. Last week he went to a barbecue in khakis from World War II. They were plenty tight and I warned him. Well, he split right out the back and had to borrow the host's bathrobe. Everyone roared. I couldn't have cared less. — Columbia, S.C.

Dear Ann: I gave up trying to dress my husband after ten years of screaming and hair-pulling. Today I'm relaxed and my blood pressure is down. He still has ink spots on all his shirts from pens that leak. Every pocket is ripped from being overloaded. He lost two coats last winter and there are five lovely gloves on the shelf — all for the left hand. It's not fair of you to say I don't care about him. I care a lot but he's a slob. — St. Cloud, Minn.

Dear Ann: I have four young children who take better care of their clothes than their father. He goes hiking in the woods in a $300 suit — tears his pants on fences, ruins his $70 shoes walking in the mud, and stuffs a $15 tie in his back pocket. Don't blame me. I didn't raise him. — Potteryville, N.J.

Dear Ann: Show me a man who looks like a refugee from a rummage sale and I'll show you a man who doesn't care about HIMSELF or his wife's feelings. I married one — so eat your words, Annabelle. — Kentucky Broil

'Good' suntan bad for skin

Dear Dr. Lamb — Now that summer is here I would like to get a good tan. I always look better tanned than being white as lard. But I'm worried about causing my skin to look old and wrinkled. I've read that the sun ages your skin, but how can I get a sun tan without aging my skin? Also I've heard that too much sun can cause skin cancer. Is that true?

I'm sure that there are lots of other readers who want to have fun in the sun without paying for it later. Any suggestions?

Incidentally I'm a blonde and tend to burn easily rather than tan so that makes it doubly difficult for me.

Dear Reader — You are right to be concerned. Underneath nearly every beautiful tan is skin damage. Ultraviolet radiation in the sunshine is a perfect example of a substance that is essential to our health and life but too much can be harmful. The UV radiation is necessary for the energy that enable plant life and it stimulates the formation of vitamin D in our skin.

The UV radiation damages the process essential to maintaining the elastic fibers in the skin. This leads to wrinkling of the skin associated with aging. One of the best proofs of the effects of the sun on your skin is to look at a skin area protected from the weather of an individual who has a wrinkled and weather beaten face. The protected skin may look youthful and unwrinkled.

It is also true that solar radiation causes skin cancer. That is why most skin cancers are on the face and areas where the skin is exposed to sunlight. Skin cancer is the most common form of cancer. Fortunately most of them can be completely cured if they are diagnosed and treated early. But new crops of skin cancer tend to occur, requiring repeated treatments to rid the skin of new cancers. The best treatment is prevention. To give you more information on skin cancer, those brown spots caused by the sun and aging of the skin I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-10, Your Skin: Sun, Aging, Spots and Cancer. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

I am sorry to say there is no way you can get a good tan without damaging your skin. This is particularly true for blonde people like you.

Realizing that people will get a tan and want to enjoy the outdoors I can only suggest ways to minimize the damage. The first rule is not to expose your skin for long that the skin gets pink. That early pink flush is not the real tan. That comes a few days later and reaches its peak about three weeks after exposure. It is produced by the increased formation of pigment in the deep layers of the skin. This pigment helps to protect the skin from sun damage.

Remember that your face is the area that is most important to protect. If you lie on your back 15 minutes and then on your stomach 15 minutes part of your face will get more than 15 minutes of exposure. I think you should use a sun screen on your face. Increase your time in the sun about five minutes a day — no more.

Fair people like you really need to use a sun screen all year around. I have discussed the various sun screens in The Health Letter I am sending you.

Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. (NEA)

Whale of a project

A large crowd at a San Pedro, Calif., beach surveys a 110-foot-long sand whale that was constructed by a group of beach goers over the weekend. The group spent six hours in the sun wetting the whale down so it would not collapse. Projects such as this one usually stay in shape until someone up the beach starts a new endeavor.

Keeping public informed what agency's all about

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

How can I tell if my car needs a tune-up?

Which costs more — renting or buying a home?

What will the Universal Product Code mean for food bills?

The government has the answers to these and thousands of other questions if you know where to look.

Directing people to the right place is one of the jobs of the Consumer Information Center, established in 1970 by presidential order as part of the General Services Administration.

The center has two main objectives: To encourage federal departments and agencies to develop and issue relevant consumer information and to let people know that the information is there.

At the heart of the center's efforts is a 16-page catalog, published quarterly, which lists publications issued by various federal departments and agencies on topics ranging from birth ("The Right to be Well Born," no charge) to burial ("The Price of Death," $1.05).

The catalog is available from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009. A similar catalog, listing selected publications in Spanish, is available at the same address.

What sort of things are Americans most interested in?

Publications dealing directly with saving or earning money generally are the most popular. A booklet on careers and job openings in the coming decade was such a success that the center ran out of copies, despite two printings.

Publications about safety and appliances are the least successful. A center spokesman explained that people just don't see themselves as targets of danger. They always think of safety as something applying to somebody else.

When it comes to appliances, a spokesman said, consumers turn to friends and neighbors or commercial publications rather than the federal government.

One of the all-time hits has been a free booklet called "Keeping Records — What to Discard." A spokesman for the center said most people apparently don't know how long they are required to keep items such as canceled checks and receipts. "One woman had bank records going back 40 years and wanted to know if she had to keep saving them," the spokesman said.

Other booklets available without charge that rate high in popularity include, "Buying Government Surplus Personal Property," "Myths about Vitamins" and "Understanding Your Utility Bills."

The most popular items for sale include: "The Backyard Mechanic," $1.25; "Car Care and Service," 35 cents; and "Food and Your Weight," 50 cents.

A spokesman for the center said more than 20 million copies of the catalogs are distributed each year through such sources as congressional offices, federal government facilities, Social Security offices and agricultural extension bureaus.

The Colorado mailing center, operated by the Government Printing Office, sent out 20 million copies of individual publications last year, a 100 per cent increase from 1975.

The summer catalog lists 232 publications, of which 131 or 56 per cent are available without charge. Prices for most of the other items are 35 or 45 cents.

Kuwaiti troops overpower invalid hijacker on plane

KUWAIT (AP) — Kuwaiti troops dressed as mechanics overpowered a Lebanese man in a wheelchair who hijacked a Lebanese jetliner with 112 other persons aboard and demanded $1.5 million, airport sources reported.

The 101 other passengers and 11 crew members were unharmed.

The hijacker was identified as Nasser Mohammed Ali Abu Khaled, 28, from the northern Lebanese village of Kubaieh. One of the other passengers said he told them:

"I am a sick man and I am forced to do this. I need the money."

Abu Khaled had been carried aboard the plane in Beirut in his wheelchair. Officials at the Beirut airport said he was not given the usual security search because he was an invalid.

Radio Kuwait said Abu Khaled was being questioned by security officials and by the Lebanese and Iraqi ambassadors.

The airliner, a Boeing 707 operated by Lebanon's Middle East Airways, was nearing the end of a flight from Beirut to Baghdad, Iraq, on Sunday when Abu Khaled wheeled his chair down the aisle, held a small pistol on the pilot and demanded to be flown to Kuwait, passenger Kamel Dawi reported.

After the plane landed in Kuwait, the hijacker made his ransom demand. Officials at the airport began to negotiate with him, and the ambassadors of Lebanon and Iraq joined in. Meanwhile, Kuwait's interior and defense minister, Sheikh Saad el-Abudla el Sabah, and his security forces made plans to capture the man, a government announcement broadcast by Radio Kuwait said.

After nearly eight hours of negotiations, the Kuwait Information Ministry announced that Abu Khaled had agreed to surrender after being promised safe conduct out of the country. Instead, a group of commandos boarded the plane disguised as air conditioning technicians and grabbed the man with the help of two male stewards.

Dawi said Abu Khaled fired a single shot from his pistol as he was seized, but no one was hit. He was brought down the ramp from the plane in his wheelchair with his hands tied behind his back.

"He was a pathetic figure and we felt we could subdue him, but we waited," said Dawi.

Two Britons were the only Westerners among the passengers.

Rolla A. Clymer dies; famous Kansas editor

EL DORADO, Kan. (AP) — Rolla A. Clymer, a towering figure in Kansas journalism for 60 years, will be buried Tuesday beneath the gently rolling, picturesque countryside he wrote so lovingly of.

The much-honored editor of the El Dorado Times, a speechmaker and editorial writer of national renown, died Saturday at Allen Memorial Hospital. He was 88.

Services are scheduled at 11 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church here, with the Rev. Donald Welsh officiating. Also participating will be J. B. McKay of El Dorado, U.S. Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and Clyde Reed, publisher of the Parsons Sun who once described Clymer as "a master craftsman of the editorial sanctum."

Born the son of a Presbyterian minister in Alton, Kan., on July 23, 1888, Clymer was graduated from high school at Quenemo in 1905 and from the College of Emporia in 1909.

Carter flower economy version

ATLANTA (AP) — Foreign officials gave President Carter an elaborate glass dogwood flower a few years ago, but Rosalynn Carter is giving an economy version of the same flower to leaders of foreign nations.

The U.S. State Department bought the glass dogwood flowers for under $50 each from Hans Godo Frabel, an Atlanta artist, for Mrs. Carter to present to the heads of state she visits on her Latin American tour.

Frabel said the flower is a less-expensive version of one which the consulate corps of Atlanta gave to Carter several years ago.

"I think they want to cut down on the cost to the taxpayers," Frabel said of the State Department's decision to buy the smaller glass creations for Mrs. Carter's trip.

He began his career in 1907 as a reporter and city editor for William Allen White, the legendary editor of the Emporia Gazette. In 1918 he became operator of the El Dorado Republican and a year later merged the paper with the Walnut Valley Times to create the El Dorado Times, and he remained as editor for 60 years.

In 1957 Clymer became the fourth recipient of the award for journalistic merit given annually to a Kansas editor by the William Allen White Foundation at the University of Kansas. He was named Kansas of the Year in 1960 and awarded a life membership in the Kansas Library Association in 1962. At its 1956 commencement exercises the University of Kansas and the alumni association conferred upon him a citation for distinguished service to mankind.

A driving force in Kansas politics, economics and industry, Clymer was named in 1939 as the first director of the Industrial Development Commission. He served until 1942 and his lobbying efforts in Washington were instrumental in bringing $655 million in defense contracts to Kansas.

But he is most vividly remembered for the graphic, richly worded editorials that graced the pages of the Times and drew national attention to small town life in Kansas.

Reed, in a 1969 tribute to his friend and colleague, said Clymer, "...is honored as the senior practicing editor of his state, not in years alone but in the beauty, the sparkle and the wisdom which have poured forth from his typewriter in prodigious, delightful volume for half a century."

The Flint Hills, Reed noted then, "have been Rolla Clymer's love ever since he set foot in El Dorado early in 1918, and even before. He has put their virtues into words which promise to live as long as the Hills themselves."

Three of the Tony Award winners honored Sunday night were, from left, Barry Bostwick, best actor in a musical for "The Robber Bridegroom,"

Dorothy Loudon, best actress in a musical for "Annie," and Al Pacino, best actor in a play for "The Basic Training of Pavlo Hummel."

'Annie' takes seven honors at 31st annual Tony Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — A musical based on a comic strip of another era and portrayals of a gentle poet of another century and a Vietnam War GI of another decade were winners at the 31st annual Tony Awards for excellence on Broadway.

Julie Harris, who portrayed the reclusive poet Emily Dickinson in her limited-run one-woman show "The Belle of Amherst," won her fifth Tony as best actress.

Al Pacino, known best for his movie roles in "Serpico" and "The Godfather," returned to Broadway playing the title role in a Theater Company of Boston revival of "The Basic Training of Pavlo Hummel" and won as best actor in the Vietnam War play.

But "Annie," the musical built around the story of "Little Orphan Annie," was the big winner, taking the Tony in seven of the 19 categories at Sunday night's nationally televised presentation at the Shubert Theater. The string of awards for "Annie" showed why it is already the hottest ticket in town.

Thomas Meehan, in accepting his Tony for best book of a musical, said that when lyricist Martin Charnin phoned him with the idea for a musical based on the comic strip, "I thought it was the worst idea I'd ever heard."

Charnin and composer Charles Strouse picked up Tonys for best score. "Annie" producer Mike Nichols accepted the Tony for best musical. Comedienne-singer Dorothy Loudon, who runs the orphanage, won as best actress in a musical. Peter Gennaro won for his choreography. David Mitchell for his "Annie" scenery.

"Annie" designer Theoni Aldredge tied with Santo Loquasto, who did costumes for "The Cherry Orchard," as best designer.

Barry Bostwick won as best actor in a musical for his title role in "The Robber Bridegroom," a rustic caper which opened in October and closed in February.

"The Shadow Box," a drama about death that recently won the Pulitzer Prize for author Michael Cristofer, was named best play. "Shadow Box" director Gordon Davidson won a Tony. He also accepted a special Tony for the Center Theater Group at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles, which he heads.

Tony nominations were voted on by 486 members of the theatrical profession. The Lawrence Langner Award for lifetime achievement was given to producer Cheryl Crawford. Special Tonys went to the Equity Library Theater, National Theater of the Deaf and three performers who made Broadway debuts this season with one-person shows — comedienne Lily Tomlin and singers Barry Manilow and Diana Ross.

Israel honors Frank Sinatra

WASHINGTON (AP) — Singer Frank Sinatra has been presented with Israel's Cultural Award at an Independence Ball celebrating the Jewish nation's 29th anniversary.

More than 1,000 persons attended the affair on Sunday at the Washington Hilton, and watched as Israel's U.S. ambassador, Simcha Dinitz, honored Sinatra.

Sinatra has made a number of visits to Israel in recent years, and presented a series of concerts to promote the nation's health and welfare institutions.

STATE FAIR CENTER — SEDALIA

Board member to vote against hiring

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Betty Crow, a member of the state Board of Cosmetology, said Saturday she will not vote in favor of hiring Carlene Orr as the board's executive secretary.

"In view of the publicity and in view of what I know now, no, I would not vote for Mrs. Orr," Mrs. Crow said.

The board met Saturday to reconsider the appointment of Mrs. Orr to the $14,000 a year position. But one board member was absent and action on Mrs. Orr's hiring was delayed.

Mrs. Orr, a former board member, resigned recently and was appointed executive secretary of the board which is responsible for licensing and registering hairdressers, cosmetologists and manicurists and inspecting beauty schools in the state.

George Uffmann, former director of the Division of Professional Registration and Licensing which oversees the board's activities, resigned after Mrs. Orr was appointed to the job. Uffmann claimed that state Sen. Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, and another state senator had interfered with the board's activities to get Mrs. Orr hired.

James Sullivan, director of the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing, asked the board to reconsider the vote to hire Mrs. Orr because she voted for her own appointment.

Another board member, Ruth Allen, said she was "keeping an open mind" on Mrs. Orr's appointment. "Things can happen," she said without revealing how she will vote.

Board member Wanda Bolton was absent from the Saturday meeting due to an emergency. Because any board action on Mrs. Orr's appointment requires three votes, no formal action was taken and Sullivan said he would reschedule the meeting.

Sullivan said he had no indication that Mrs. Bolton's absence was intentional to delay a vote on Mrs. Orr. However, a vacancy does exist on the board and Gov. Joseph Teasdale's appointee, Theresa Forte of Kansas City, will appear before the Senate Gubernatorial Appointments Committee Wednesday.

Reports published Friday indicated that Mrs. Forte had been fired from her job as a cosmetology board inspector in 1973. Her appointment must be approved by the Senate. Merrell is chairman of the appointments committee.

Following the board action in May to appoint Mrs. Orr executive secretary, published reports showed that Merrell had made $1,900 worth of long distance telephone calls to Mrs. Orr's Shelbina beauty shop during a 19-month period in 1975 and 1976.

Merrell, who is president pro tem of the Senate, claims the 543 calls, made at taxpayers' expense, were on state business and constituent problems.

"SHOULD I EVER DIP INTO MY CAPITAL?"

In her book, "Life is for Living," Theresa Morse maintains that a widow's capital is not always an untouchable commodity, nor need it be sacred. It is intended to be used sensibly for the sake of security but also to help make a better, happier life for yourself.

Ms. Morse points out that, if for all the years before you were widowed, you and your husband managed your finances without your children's advice, there's little reason to begin now.

Feel free to do what is important to YOU, without endangering the bulk of your capital. A trip or a special gift to yourself or others may seem extravagant to your children, but extremely meaningful to YOU.

Project the use of your capital wisely, reserving funds for emergencies, but, as Ms. Morse indicates, your welfare and happiness comes first and "your life is for living."

Advice regarding major finances can be sought from a banker or accountant, both professionals on whose skill you may rely.
